A congressman from Illinois tells of the trials of a politician in that state whose wife is, according to his notions, a somewhat too ardent advocate of roman's suffrage. On one occasion, it appears, the better half was remonetrating with her husband for his adverse stand in the matter.

"Mark my words," exclaimed she excitedly, "one of these fine days we women will rise in our might and demand a voice in the management of this country's affairs!"

"For mercy's sake, don't say that!" retorted the politician, with assumed horror. "Re satisfied, my dear, if you secure the right to vote."-Woman's Home Companion.

A Mediaeval Bill of Pare. A fourteenth century manuscript still extant records the festivities attendant on the marriage of Violante Visconti with the Duke Lionel Plantagenet, son of Edward III, of England, at Milan, Italy. The wedding dinner consisted of eighteen courses, as follows: First course, sucking pigs wrapped in a thin coating of gold, fish with their mouths giving forth fire; second, hares roasted and gilded; third, veal roasted and trout incrusted in gold; fourth, qualls, partridges and again trout, roasted and gilded; fifth, ducks, game and more fish; sixth, beef and capons unadorned; seventh, capons, meat and fish done in lemon; eighth, beef and fish of different kinds; ninth, eels and more meat; tenth, galantine of meat and fish; eleventh, lamb roasted; twelfth, hare and wild boar with onions; thirteenth, venison; fourteenth, capons and chickens with red sauce of apples and lemons; afteenth, peacocks with beans, saited tongue and rossted carp; sixteenth, peacocks again, this time boiled in spices; seventeenth, cheese, and eighteenth, cherries.

Wit Used as an Ax.

An honest old Pennsylvania farmer had a tree on bis premises he wanted to cut down, but being weak in his back and having a dull ax, he hit upon the following pian: Knowing the passion among his neighbors for coon bunting, he made a coon's foot out of a potato and proceeded to imprint numerous tracks in the snow to and up the tree. When all was ready, he informed his neighbors that the tree must be filled with coons, pointing to the external evidence made with his coon's foot. The balt took, and in a short time half a dozen fellows with sharp axes were chopping at the base of the tree, each taking his regular turn. The party also brought dogs and shotguns and were in ecstasies over the anticipated haul of fat coons. The tree finally fell, but nary a coon was wen to drop. Germantown Telegraph.

An Odd Tug of War.

Screw propellers, like most other inrecognition from authority. For instance. Sir William Symonds, surveyor and principal designer to the British admiralty, could not be brought to befleve in them. He declared that steamships of any sort were "monstrous" and that the screw was impossible The day came when choice between paddle wheels and screw propellers had to be made. The naval authorities tled two ships stern to stern, and when the screw propelled vessel had trithis ludicrous tug of war the lords of the admiralty felt justified in model. ing the British navy nnew.

OLIVE SPENCER AND ALBERT, JR., THE YOUNGEST MEMBER OF THE BRANDON COMPANY.

The Brandon Players, a stock organization bearing the reputation of being one of the best in the Northwest, are booked to play an indefinite engagement at the Star Theater, beginning Monday night. The play chosen for the opening is a strong comedy drama entitled "Heart of Kentucky." The scenes of the play are laid in the Kentucky Mountains, and the characters are drawn from life,

One of the acts takes place in an old still, the curtain goes up showing the mountaineers at work making illegitimate whiskey. There is a raid on the still by the revenue officers who are overpowered and bound to a tree to be lynched. While the outlaws are drinking a toast to the prospective passengers to eternity, by the hemp route, Daisy, the Mountain Flower, cuts the ropes and releases the prisoners, who in turn bind the outlaws and take them prisoners. There are too very pretty love stories running through the play, and an abundance of bright, sparkling comedy.

The Brandon Players will present two bills weekly and the usual Star prices will remain.
